VEIN, VEIN, GO AWAY

You see them everywhere you go—at the market, on the beach, at the mall or in the gym. You may even see them every day when you look in the mirror. They are unsightly, embarrassing, purple, ropey, bulging veins. They are varicose veins. "There are a large number of patients that have been hesitant to get treatment of their varicose veins in the past because they thought they would have to undergo painful surgical procedures with a long recovery time," says Dr. Leary. New advances in laser technology have given way to noninvasive procedures. Venous disease is no longer treated with vein stripping. Options now include Endovenous laser ablation (EVLA), the treatment through which a small laser fiber eliminates varicose veins at the source and provides immediate relief of symptoms. The EVLA procedure offers a safer, more effective non-surgical treatment with little or no pain or down time. The treatments are done in the office, it takes less than an hour, there is no general anesthesia and patients can drive themselves to and from treatments. Dr. Leary combines medical and cosmetic venous procedures, providing patients with the total treatment package. Experience counts, California Vein Specialists is dedicated to providing safe, effective and affordable non-surgical treatments for patients with vein conditions.
